Re: Application for Junior Web Developer Position

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the Junior Web Developer position at TechStart Australia, which I discovered on the WorkBridge platform. As an international student studying Information Technology at the University of Sydney, I am particularly drawn to your company's commitment to supporting visa-eligible candidates.

The visa-friendly designation on your job listing reassured me that I could apply confidently knowing my work hour restrictions — a maximum of 48 hours per fortnight on a subclass 500 student visa — would be respected. This kind of transparency is exactly why platforms like WorkBridge are so valuable for international students like me.

My experience with React.js, JavaScript, and modern frontend development from both university coursework and personal projects aligns directly with the technologies in your stack. I am particularly proud of WorkBridge itself, a full-stack job platform I helped develop using React and Django REST Framework. This project gave me hands-on experience with JWT authentication, REST API design, PostgreSQL database modelling, and responsive UI design using Tailwind CSS.

Beyond technical skills, I bring strong communication abilities (IELTS 7.5), a collaborative attitude developed through tutoring and volunteer work, and a deep motivation to grow as a developer in the Australian tech industry. I am available 20 hours per week during semester and full-time during semester breaks.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my skills, enthusiasm, and reliable availability can contribute to TechStart Australia's team. I have attached my resume and would be happy to provide references or work samples upon request.

Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Arjun Kumar
